Specification

The examiner has not checked the specification to the extent necessary to determine the presence of all possible minor errors (grammatical, typographical and idiomatic). Cooperation of the applicant(s) is requested in correcting any errors of which applicant(s) may become aware of in the specification, in the claims and in any future amendment(s) that applicant(s) may file.

Applicant(s) is also requested to complete the status of any copending applications referred to in the specification by their Attorney Docket Number or Application Serial Number, if any.

The status of the parent application(s) and/or any other application(s) cross-referenced to this application, if any, should be updated in a timely manner.

Election/Restriction

Claims 68-70 remain withdrawn from consideration. Applicant indicates rejoinder will be requested upon indication of allowable subject matter. It is pointed out that rejoinder will be automatic provided the withdrawn claims directly depend from or include all limitations of the elected claims and provided that the application is not under final rejection, because at such point, rejoinder, search and examination of withdrawn claims would constitute a new issue before the examiner.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

Art Unit: 1793

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

The rejections of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) over U.S. 5,919,430 or WO 94/02245, each taken individually, is withdrawn in view of the amendment presented February 16, 2010. However, the following new rejection is applicable:

Claims 50-60 and 63-67 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over US 6,054,112 to Hasenzahl et al. in view of US 5,919,430 to Hasenzahl et al.

The newly presented claims recite a process for producing a zeolite comprising the steps of crystallization, separation, calcination, contact with deionized water, shaping and calcining, and the catalyst produced thereby. The critical limitation at this time is that the contact with water takes place after the calcination step.

Hasenzahl et al. '112 disclose a process for the production of TS-1 materials that involves the steps of crystallization, washing with deionized water, calcination, treatment with ammonium acetate, further washing with deionized water, and further calcination. This does not differ substantively from the presented claims. See particularly column 4 and the examples. The disclosure indicates that the materials can be converted to a form suitable for application comprising the same steps employed by applicant, but does not indicate where in the process such shaping steps should be conducted. Clearly, the order of steps would not be considered to impact the final resulting catalyst. Limitations such as the claimed UV/VIS characteristics are considered to flow from the process of making a product as taught by Hasenzahl et al. '112.

Hasenzahl et al. '430 produce a closely analogous catalyst composition, and provides specific information that the material may be shaped before, during or after calcinations, and before or after the washing steps. Accordingly, it would have been obvious to select any known method for shaping and the time in the production process based on the knowledge set forth in the prior art regarding the conventionality of these steps. See particularly column 5.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 50-67 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Conclusion

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
